Cautious sentiment

In 45W26, market liquidity rebounded. Specifically, the trading volume and value of the CWs market recorded 370.9 million CWs/VN226.4bn, up 18.7%/ 4.8%, respectively, WoW.

With trading value by an underlying asset, the CWs that VPB and HPG as the underlying asset attracted the most trading interest, recording 29% of total trading volume. Following them were warrants based on stocks such as TCB, HDB, MWG, STB, and MSN.

During the week, an increase in newly issued covered warrants contributed to the recovery in trading liquidity. However, market performance remained subdued, as declining warrants continued to significantly outnumber advancing ones, indicating persistent downward pressure. Meanwhile, the underlying market also weakened, with the VNIndex falling 0.9% over the week. The synchronized weakness across both markets partly reflected investors' cautious sentiment, amid an unclear overall market direction and a lack of meaningful improvement in capital flows.

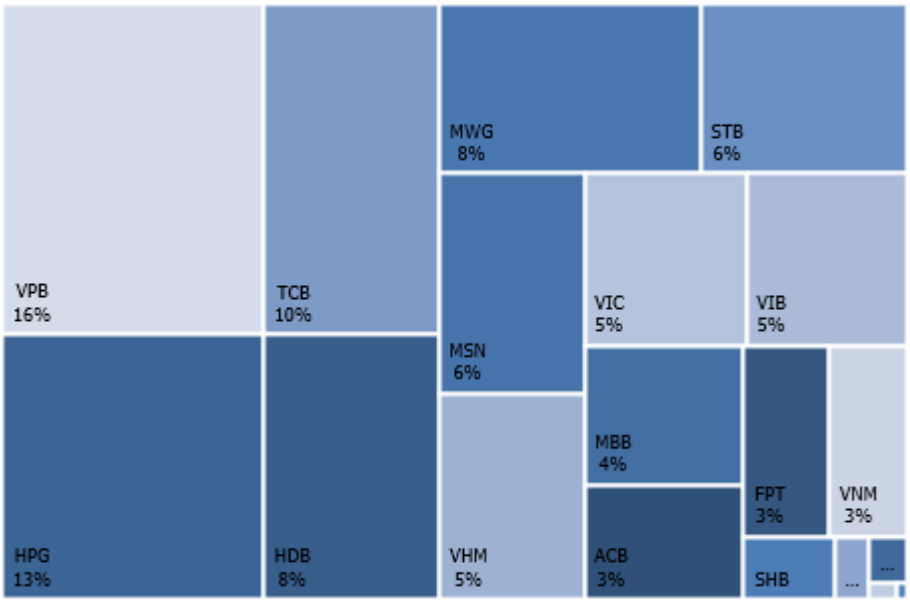

Note: The covered warrant market is commonly used for short-term trading which means volatility level is extremely high. Notably, covered warrant has the positive correllation with its underlying, the short-term fluctuation in the underlying price could lead to the big move in covered warrant.
