A downtrend?

VN30 performance

The VN30 Index posted its third consecutive session of decline, falling 1.57% to 1,939 points amid broad-based selling pressure. Accordingly, 27 constituent stocks closed lower, led by SHB (-4.18%), SSB (-3.69%), GVR (-3.59%), SSI (-3.39%), LPB (-3.37%) and CTG (-3.26%). A further 15 stocks declined by more than 1%. On the other side, gains appeared in BSR (+0.98%), VPL (+0.73%) and GAS (+0.27%).

VN30 Future chart: A downtrend?

Market sentiment turned negative as the contract retested the June 2026 bottom zone with a long red candle. This points to a downtrend in the short term.

In addition, the index closed below key moving averages, including the 10-, 20-, 50- and 100-period lines. The downtrend is therefore confirmed, particularly as volume rose during yesterday's decline.

In the next session, strong support sits at 1,840-1,860 points, while strong resistance sits at 1,990-2,000 points - a zone that coincides with the short-term moving averages.

Technical strategy

The downtrend has been confirmed on rising volume. Investors may therefore consider reopening short positions.
